HISTORY

THE EARLY DAYS

The early history of Trinity Protestant Episcopal Church is clouded in obscurity. People in a new country, beset on every side with the hardships of pioneering, have little time for a recording of even important events. Much less do they have opportunity to make record of the seemingly casual visits of a clergyman.

However, it is fortunate that there are extant several important letters which relate to the early days of Michigan City and of the Parish. It was by guidance of the Holy Spirit that the Rt. Rev. Philander Chase, D. D., of the Diocese of Ohio, stopped at the little settlement on Lake Michigan during his journey to Illinois.

In Bishop Chase's diary it is recorded under the date of October, 1834, "Stopped at Michigan City, read the service, visited with a few people, drove through the sand dunes along the Lake, and in the evening again read the service."

This was the beginning of the present Parish. In the spring of 1835 the first recorded communicant of the Church settled here. In the fall of the same year one other arrived. These two early followers of Christ in the community, whose names have been lost, communicated with a Rev. Mr. Hallam of Chicago inviting him to visit Michigan City and hold services. Mr. Hallam complied with the request and in the spring of 1836 held two services.

During that summer a complete tabulation of the Church allegiance of the inhabitants was made and the record shows twelve communicants of the Episcopal Church.

About this same time, arrangements were made with the Rev. Joseph Selkrig, Missionary at Niles, Michigan, to make regular visits and hold services. Under the leadership of Mr. Selkrig, on December 11, 1835, a frame building was used as the Church on the northeast corner of the alley between Fourth and Market (now 5th) streets on Pine Street, technically known as the south half of lot 3, Block 20, Elston's Original Survey, owned then by Fisher and George Ames.

A note in the Vestry book of the day reads as follows: "These were truly days of refreshment from the presence of the Lord."

Gradually the strength of the Church increased, the congregation was organized under the name, "Church of the Advent," in the year 1836. The little congregation's first real difficulty arose over this name. It was declared that in view "of an existing state law, the organization was null and void." Thereupon a meeting of the Parish was called and the name changed to "Trinity Protestant Episcopal Church." These were days of hardship, trial and disappointment.

In March, 1837, the congregation being without pastoral leadership endeavored to call a Rev. Mr. Hickox who was about to move from Watertown, N. Y. Because of the slowness of the transmittal of mail, they did not hear until August that he could not come.

In the same year, the Rt. Rev. Jackson Kemper, who followed Bishop Chase as the ecclesiastical authority of the Diocese, with his companion, the Rev. Samuel R. Johnson, made a visit to Michigan City. A service was held and the congregation "were much encouraged and strengthened through the Sacraments and prayers."

Until the winter of 1838 the Parish was without spiritual guidance except for occasional visits of the Rev. Mr. Selkrig of Niles.

On December 20, 1843 the Pine Street property was deeded to the Church Wardens and Vestrymen and mortgaged to Zebina Gould and U. C. Follet. The Vestry in turn sold the property on August 4, 1862, to U. C. Follet and John Holliday. Meantime, in 1858, had been erected the first Church on the present property which was of frame construction and gothic in design. The present stone Church was completed in 1889.

It may not be generally known but north of the present entrance to the church on Franklin Street are not only the cornerstone of 1889, but also those from the previous churches, dated 1836 and 1858.

J. Packard's History of LaPorte County says: "The first building exclusively for church services was erected by the Protestant Episcopals. It was built in 1835 or 36, and stood on Pine Street between Fourth and Market (now Fifth) Streets." If you will look at the cut on page 4 we believe you will agree that the building still stands as No. 414-416 Pine. St.

The first recorded Rector was the Rev. D. V. M. Johnson who entered upon his duties on February 1, 1838. Later he became famous in having charge of a Brooklyn, N. Y., church for fifty odd years.

The first record of Baptism is that of Jacob Clements in February, 1838. The sponsors were Diantha Clements and Dr. Pulford. In the same month, a funeral is recorded, that of Sarah Virginia Clements; and in April, 1838, the first marriage - Charles K. Averill and Jane Sumner. The first Confirmation did not come until January, 1839, when Augustus Barber received the laying on of hands from the Rt. Rev. Jackson Kemper.

The first Vestry of the Church were:

Zebina Gould, Senior Warden
H. P. Holbrook, Junior Warden
Dr. Schuyler Pulford
David Finley
David Tryon
Gilbert Hathaway
R. F. Blyndenburgh
Horatio N. Crandel
Augustus Barber
Lee H. T. Maxon

A few facts in addition to the above may not be out of place. Early weddings recorded are: Catharine Tryon and Harvey Truesdell, (great grandparents of Miss Barbara Vail and Robert, John, Walter and Edward Vail) October 28, 1838; Kaney C. Goodhue and James Macadoo, 1840; Mary Rees and Zebina Gould, 1840; Cordelia E. Collamer and John Barker, 1841; Aurora Case and Abagail Tryon, 1843; Harriet L. Sherman and John E. Simpson, 1866. During the rectorship of Rev. Samuel J. French, Mrs. Charlotte Greenwood, wife of Thomas Greenwood, died on August 9, 1875. Greenwood Cemetery, where she lies buried, was named after this family. Under Bishop White, there served as choirmaster, Fletcher H. Wheeler, who developed what was one of the outstanding boy choirs of the country, thirty-five boys. This Choir was maintained for several years under other leadership and the present choirmaster, Henry F. Warkentine, was a member. Confirmations of interest during the earlier years of the Parish were as follows:

Zebina Gould, February 18, 1838.
Sarah Sleight, February 18, 1838.
Henry C. Carter, January, 1839.
J. G. Sleight, 1841.
Karl G. A. Voight, April 25, 1851.
Fred William Voight, 1851.
H. M. Hopkins, September 15, 1856.
Urial C. Follet, September 15, 1856.
Mariah (Earl) Doran, April 1, 1860.
W. R. Godfrey, February 14, 1864.
Mrs. Louisa Warkentine, February 14, 1864.
Mrs. Louisa Gray, February 4, 1866.
G. S. Van Deusen, April 24, 1868.
George G. Oliver, May 5, 1872.
Helen Kreidler, December 4, 1880.

It was in 1898 that they voted to divide the Diocese of Indiana (this during Bishop White's administration). Bishop White chose the northern division which included that portion of the state of Indiana "lying north of and including the counties of Benton, White, Carroll, Howard, Grant, Blackford and Jay." He asked that Michigan City be made the See City. It was agreed that this be the Diocese of Michigan City with Michigan City as the See City. The Rt. Rev. John Hazen White was elected Rector of the Parish and the Vestry tendered the present Church and the old Rectory for Bishop White's use; this Rectory was later moved to the north side of East Seventh Street between Spring and Cedar; the same is still standing at 320 East Seventh Street. The first convention for the formation of the Diocese of Michigan City and the adoption of canons for its government was held here in Trinity Church. In 1919 the Episcopal residence was moved to South Bend and then the name was changed to the Diocese of Northern Indiana.

Trinity has had an interesting history. Each year has seen some advancement in one line or another. Her outstanding accomplishment has been, perhaps, the erection of buildings. In the hundred years three churches, two rectories, a cloister and two parish houses have been erected. From a simple frame building in 1836 she has grown to a quarter of a block of buildings in 1934 valued at $750,000.00.

Twenty-five rectors have served the Parish for an average rectorship of one year and nine months. The Parish has been vacant for a total of fifteen years and nine months. It is interesting to note that only five rectors have remained more than five years—The Rev. J. J. Faude, (1882-1890) ; the Rev. N. W. Heermans, (1891-1898) ; the Rt. Rev. John Hazen White, D. D., (1898-1905) ; the Rev. W. S. Trowbridge, (1910-1917) ; the Rev. Earl Ray Hart, LL. D., (1927 to date).

BARKER HALL SCHOOL

The first school idea developed with Mrs. Lydia Everts who began activities by renting the basement of the church erected in 1858.

Succeeding Mrs. Everts the church reorganized the school in the year 1885. Its motto was: "Not to be ministered unto, but to minister." The Rector, Rev. J. J. Faude, was headmaster of the school. Others on the faculty were: Miss Anna S. Mitchell, Miss M. F. M. Raymond, Miss Mary Belle Miller, Miss Cora Martin, Miss Ida Martin, Miss Mae Belle Martin and Miss Bracken. Assistants to Mr. Faude in handling the school were Messrs. French and Lloyd.

The school included all ages and grades from primary to High School and in 1886 it moved into the new building. Dr. Samuel Murphy was the last headmaster to devote his entire time to the direction of the school. Mrs. A. B. Johnson followed as lady principal with the Rector acting as headmaster. Military training for boys was emphasized and the standard of excellence in the local public schools was due in great measure to the standard of Barker Hall.

The last class graduated in 1893.

LAYING THE CORNERSTONE OF PRESENT CHURCH, AUGUST 1889

LAYING OF CORNERSTONE OF PRESENT BARKER HALL, NOVEMBER 10, 1929

THE OLD BARKER HALL

On July 19, 1886, the cornerstone of the first Barker Hall was laid. This building was the gift of John H. Barker to Trinity Church as a memorial to Cordelia, Wallace and Eugenia Barker, his children who died in infancy.

FIRST BARKER HALL
Erected in 1886. Picture taken before Cloister was erected

The building consisted of fourteen rooms and was 45′x60′. The auditorium on the second floor was 28′ wide, 14′ high and 48′ long. The stage at the south end of the auditorium measured 10′. One room on the first floor was 28′x36′, and another on the same floor approximately 28′x22′. The entrance to the building was on the west side to a central hall from which entrance was possible to two ground rooms below the level of the floor and to two classrooms. There was a full basement to the building which housed the heating plant, place for coal storage and for miscellaneous storage. The building was of veneer construction faced with light colored brick.

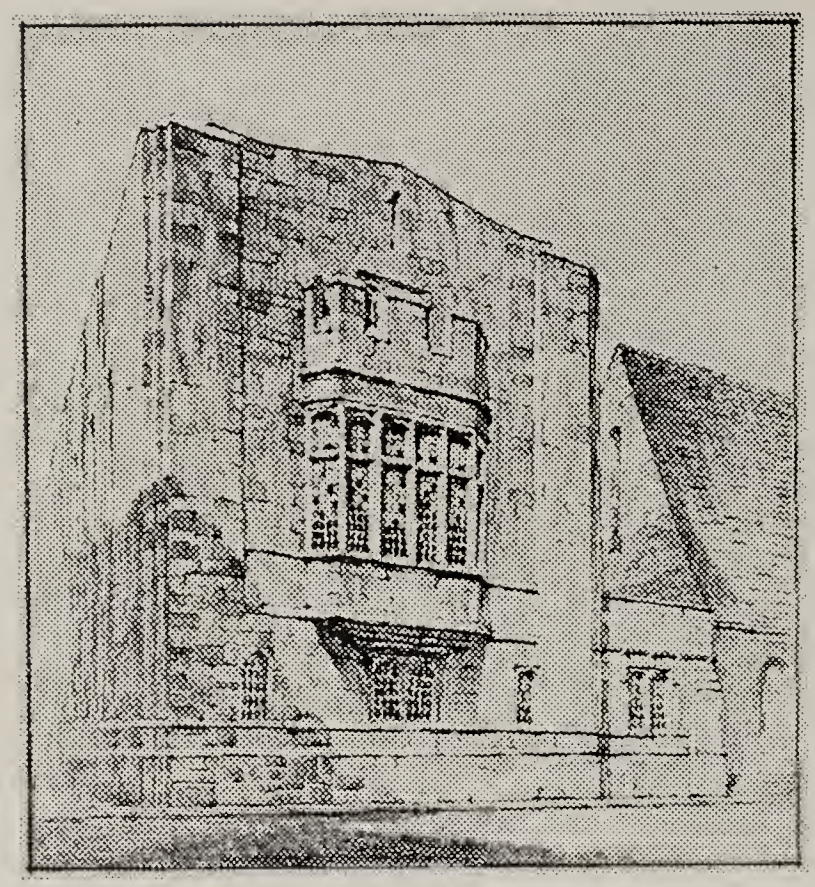
THE NEW BARKER MEMORIAL HALL



NORTH FACADE OF BARKER HALL

In April of 1929, the old building erected by Mr. Barker was torn down to make room for the magnificent structure presented to Trinity Parish by Mrs. Catherine Barker Hickox, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John H. Barker.

The building was officially opened on Sept. 22, 1930, with a banquet, prepared and served by Epiphany Guild of the Parish.

The new building is unusually complete in equipment and beautiful in environment. Entering at the Sixth Street doors to the hall, one is amazed at the beautiful carving over the entrance. Here is a stone carving by Alfonso Ionelli, of Christ and the children. Underneath carved in the oak paneling which surmounts the entrance are the equal armed cross symbolical of the Church and St. Andrew's cross symbolical of brotherhood, and in the panels just above there appears a Dividic star which is composed of two superimposed triangles symbolical of God's condescension to man and man's aspiration toward God. The oak leaf and acorn are symbolical of strength representing the Church in the world. The jagged line running from the top of the panel to the star represents the voice of God.

The vestibule to the main lobby is walled and floored with stone. The lower lobby contains two bronze plates memorializing the building, the ceiling is beamed with hand-adzed beams, the stone floor and steps and wrought iron stair balustrades and special designed lights set the tone for the rest of the building.

Looking on to Sixth Street there are six stone mullioned windows. The view from the Sixth Street lobby to the south end of the building is through a long corridor. On the first floor is the room for the women's organizations of the Parish, paneled in wood at the two ends, the side walling being papered with imported paper depicting a scene in a Chinese garden. Each organization of the Parish has a separate cupboard in which their materials are kept. A stone fireplace adds warmth and interest to the room.

The Kindergarten Department has its special room with its Chapel on this floor. The scene painted on the walls depicts the entrance of the animals to the Ark. The altar in the children's chapel is fully equipped with altar desk, cross and lights.

Just south of this room are five classrooms specially designed for use in religious education. On occasion they may be used as one large assembly room.

On the other side of the hall is the Rector's office paneled in oak and furnished with chestnut furniture, upholstered in tan leather. Adjacent to this is the office of the secretary and treasurer finished in oak and furnished with walnut furniture. The upholstery in this room is in green leather. The furniture in the offices is the gift of the Junior Warden, E. A. Simpson and his wife.

Connecting with the Rector's office, having access from both the corridor and cloister, is Intercession Chapel, a reproduction of an English country church, designed by the hands of local artisans. The altar and floor are of stone, the altar rail and lecturn are of wrought iron as are also the candle chandeliers. The Chapel chairs were given by Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Johnson. The altar was the gift of the men of the Parish and the carving of "The Last Supper" the gift of Mrs. Van Pelt.

In the basement of the building at the south end is the boiler room. Its mechanical equipment is complete with automatic boilers, pressure systems, thermostats, pumps, etc. Just off of it is the cooling and heating device for the auditorium and church. Next to the boiler room are locker rooms and showers connected with the gymnasium which is accessible by a short flight of steps. The gymnasium is equipped for the usual games and material and has adjacent to it a kitchen, fully equipped with stove, coffee urn and other accessories.

Another short flight of stairs toward the north and we come to six more classrooms. At the north end of the building is the Brotherhood room with its paneled ceiling and large stone fireplace. The floor of this room is covered with special tile linoleum as are also the corridors and halls.

On the second floor, the lobby with its tables brought from Italy and its chairs with genuine needlepoint upholstery, houses also the old Church bell which was placed in the tower of Trinity Church on St. Andrew's Day, 1876. It was removed from the tower when the chimes given by Mrs. Harriet L. Van Pelt were installed. The floor of this foyer is also of stone and the lighting fixtures are of special design.

THE AUDITORIUM
First Parish Dinner In New Building

Entrance to the auditorium is by three double doors. The auditorium is 42′ wide, 133′ long, the ceiling is 28′6″ above the floor. There is oak paneling to a height of 8′. The ceiling is unusually interesting, being decorated in Italian Renaissance.

At the south end there is a stage 23′ deep, 32′ wide, fully equipped with a dimmer switchboard which controls the lights in the auditorium as well as on the stage. At the other end of the auditorium there is a balcony on which is located the projection booth containing the latest improved model Motiograph for the projection of moving pictures. Back of the stage there is the kitchen. Here are electric ice boxes, electric mixers, ovens, ranges, dishwasher, and other things necessary for a first-class kitchen.

It is interesting to note there were 25 carloads of cut stone, 5 cars of lumber, 80 cars of sand and gravel, 20 cars of brick, 13 cars of tile, 12,985 bags of cement, 50 tons of structural steel, 25 tons of reinforcing steel, 1 carload of doors, 2 carloads of plaster, one carload of lime and one carload of plastering cement used in the building.

All floors in the building are sound proof, all wood floors are laid on spring clips which rest on a concrete slab. Covering the halls, gymnasium and some rooms of the hall 2688 block of tex-tile were used. There are 6000 cubic yards of excavation.
